

Carder Steuben Club – 2009 Symposium

Frederick Carder: Influence and Inspiration

October 1 – 3, 2009

Co-hosted by The Corning Museum of Glass

Thursday, October 1 - Pre-Program Events

10:00 a.m. Hot Glass Participation Program
Make Your Own Paperweight - $35/paperweight
Rodi Rovner's Hands On Glass
124 Crystal Lane

2:00 p.m.- New Collectors' Forum
4:00 p.m. Coffee Bar at The Corning Museum of Glass and Carder Gallery in Building B

Join other new collectors for a two hour question and answer session moderated by members of the Carder Steuben Club. Three experienced collectors will answer your questions and offer their opinions about collecting Carder Steuben Glass; buying at auction, from dealers or shops, via the Internet or at antique shows; caring for your glass and any other matters you wish to discuss. No appraisers, no auctioneers, no dealers and no shop owners – just new collectors sharing their questions and experienced collectors sharing their insights. After about an hour, we will move the discussion from the Coffee Bar to the Carder Gallery in Building B and continue our discussion there. No need to sign up in advance – just show up at the Coffee Bar.

Panel - Scott Hansen, Marshall Ketchum and Dick Weerts

5:30 p.m. - Pizza, Wine and Fellowship
7:30 p.m. Dick Bright and Kyle Goodman Residence

1:15 p.m. - A Kaleidoscope of Inspiration – Carder On His Contemporaries

2:30 p.m. Rakow Library Public Services Staff

In 1961 Thomas S. Buechner said: “No man could better personify the kaleidoscope of glass-making during the past hundred years.” Carder’s glass work was affected by his academic and technical training, his visits to London and Paris museums and galleries, and the styles of his contemporaries. Carder’s notebooks and recorded interviews that provide insight into his inspirations and opinions will form the basis of this presentation. Of particular note is Carder’s 1898 journal recording his impressions of ancient works of art as well as his contemporaries’ new Art Nouveau style.

Mark Chamovitz, Moderator

If you could keep only one piece of your Carder Steuben glass, which one would it be, and why? Bring your favorite piece of Carder Steuben (or a photograph) to the Symposium and share with us why the color, shape, pattern, acquisition story or sentimental value is so special to you.

3:30 p.m. - Identification Clinic
5:00 p.m.

If you've ever wondered whether a piece of glass was designed by Carder or made during his tenure at Steuben, bring it to the ID Clinic and have it evaluated by experienced Carder Steuben collectors. If you have questions about a piece of Carder Steuben (how it was made, what color is it, etc.) bring it as well and get your questions answered.

David Goldstein, Moderator
Panel - Mark Buffa, Marshall Ketchum, Lon Knickerbocker and Bobby Rockwell
